found about 60 feet below the vehicle.

The Farmer family dog, which was riding in the vehicle, was injured in the crash, but stayed near the victim, and had to be captured by emergency personnel before they could complete the investigation. The dog was returned to the family.

Body pulled from river

The unidentified male was found this morning
by a boater outside the mouth of the Columbia

A man's body was found floating outside the mouth of the Columbia River today.

The body was seen at 7 a.m. by someone aboard one of the 200 boats outside the mouth of the river, U.S. Coast Guard Ensign Eric May said. No official identification has been made, May said.

The person had no life jacket or identification on him. However, the victim's clothing matches the description of a man who disappeared Friday, May said.

May said the body was taken to Cape Disappointment, and the Coast Guard is suspending its efforts because there were no other pleasure craft distress calls reported this morning.

Leland John May, 75, has not been seen since he left his Astoria home on foot at 2 p.m. Friday, said Capt. Alan Oja of Astoria Police Department. Family members said May did not take identification, money, credit cards or his prescription medication. They said he was distressed about family matters.

May was last seen wearing a light blue dress shirt, blue pants and brown leather boots. He is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, 155 pounds and has gray hair, balding on top.

Astoria Police Department's Detective Eric Halverson, who is investigating the missing persons case, said no official identification has been made.

May said when people go out on the water, they should always wear a life jacket, and carry identification and a radio.

Missing man's body identified

Leland John May told his family he was going to walk off the docks

Police have identified a body found floating outside the mouth of the Columbia River Tuesday as Leland John May, 75, of Astoria.

His clothing matched the description of May, who disappeared Friday, Astoria Police Capt. Alan Oja said.

The initial appearance is that he died of drowning, Oja said.

"There was no indication of any foul play," Detective Eric Halverson said. "He had made comments to family members that he was going to walk off the docks."

May's family members said he did not take identification, money, credit cards or his prescription medication when he left his Astoria home on foot at 2 p.m. Friday. They said he was distressed about family matters.

A boater noticed a man floating face down near Buoy 2 at about 7 a.m. Tuesday and reported it to the U.S. Coast Guard, Ensign Eric May said.

Oja said there was nothing suspicious about the body, and his family members were the last ones to see him at the East end of Astoria several blocks from the river.

Buoy 2 is outside the mouth of the river, about 15 miles from Astoria's river front, Oja said.

"With the river currents and tide the way they run, it's not surprising that he would be that far out," Oja said.

21-year-old Seaside man also missing

By BRAD BOLCHUNOS
The Daily Astorian

SEASIDE — A search continues for a 21-year-old Seaside man last seen a week ago.

Robert Michael McAlinden was at a party where police responded to a report of loud music during spring break, said Sgt. Steve Barnett, a detective for the Seaside Police Department. The report referred to a house in the 400 block of 11th Avenue shortly after 12:30 a.m. March 24.

"Robert was there and tried to avoid contact with police, and left the area on foot," Barnett said. As to his whereabouts now, information is sought from the public. "We have no leads."

McAlinden had been living with his parents in the 600 block of North Holladay Drive, and since the party neither they nor his friends have seen him, Barnett said. McAlinden did not have to work Monday, but he failed to show up for work Tuesday.

Worried friends said not appearing at work with no warning was uncharacteristic of him.

McAlinden was reported missing Wednesday and Barnett became involved in the case Thursday.

On Friday, Clatsop County Search and Rescue crews conducted a search between the Necanicum River and the Pacific Ocean shore from 11th Avenue to the city sewer treatment plant near the river mouth. No signs of McAlinden were found, Barnett said.

Subsequently, a helicopter pilot reported what appeared to be a red car in the Necanicum River, on the Gearhart side of the mouth.

A Clatsop County dive team responded to the scene this morning. Information from the glove compartment indicated it was not related to the McAlinden search, and did not appear to be stolen, Barnett said.

See McALINDEN, Page 10

McAlinden: Car not related

The Seaside Public Works department and volunteers with the Gearhart Fire Department assisted with digging out and removing the car, a 1990 Chevrolet Lumina.

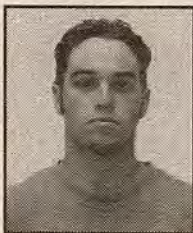

Apparently the car had been abandoned, Barnett said. An investigation continues.

"If anyone has information about how it got into the river, it would be appreciated," Barnett said.

"None of these cases seem to be related," he added. "It has been a busy time for us."

Flyers about McAlinden have been placed on downtown business windows.

Information about McAlinden also has been posted on the Seaside Police department Web site at www.seasidepd.org. People with information about his whereabouts are urged to call the police department at (503) 738-6311.

He was wearing white Adidas tennis shoes.

McAlinden typically carries a brown wallet with a silver sticker attached to it that says, "Shove It." It contains an Oregon ID and cash, but no bank or credit cards.

He also typically wears a silver-colored Fossil watch and a silver link necklace, and an "OSAA State Wrestling" key ring.

Manner of McAlinden death not yet known

SEASIDE — Drowning has been listed as the cause of death for resident Robert McAlinden, but the manner is not yet known, police said Wednesday.

The body of McAlinden, 21, was found in the surf by a visitor to the Gearhart beach south of the 10th Street Access on Saturday evening. He had last been seen in the early morning hours of March 25, when on foot he left the scene of a party in the 400 block of 11th Avenue. His family reported him missing March 27.

A search, distribution of fliers with his description and news stories about his disappearance failed to yield clues to his whereabouts. His body was found in heavy surf along a fairly well-traveled beach and had not been ashore long, said Sgt. Steve Barnett, a detective with the Seaside Police Department.

No overt indicators of foul play or suspicious injuries were apparent, Barnett said. An autopsy was conducted Monday by the state medical examiner's office.

Results of toxicology tests have not yet been released.

The cause of death has been listed as drowning. An investigation continues regarding the manner of death, such as whether it was accidental.

"How he got in the ocean, I don't know," Barnett said.

McAlinden had been working for Mount Hood Beverages in Warrenton and attending Clatsop Community College.

A memorial service is scheduled for noon Friday at Hughes Ransom Mortuary, 220 N. Holladay Drive.

In Loving Memory: Brent Darin Riser

November 30, 1964 -
March 23, 2002

Don't think of him as gone away,
His journey has just begun.
Life holds so many faces,
This earth is only one.

Just think of him as resting,
From the sorrows and the tears,
In a place of warmth and comfort,
Where there are no days
and no years.

Think of how we must be wishing,
That he could know today,
How nothing but our sadness
Can really pass away.

And think of him as living,
In the hearts of those he touched,
For nothing loved is ever lost,
And he was loved so much.

HIS FAMILY IS LOOKING FORWARD TO THE FULFILLMENT OF:

John 5:28,29

The resurrection of the dead, "The hour is Coming in which all those in the, tombs Will hear his voice and come out."

Revelation 21:4

No more sickness and death: "He
(God) Will wipe out every tear from their eyes And death will be no more, neither will Mourning
nor outcry nor pain be anymore."

Man drowns near Gearhart

GEARHART – A Warrenton man drowned after his boat capsized in the surf near Del Rey Beach this morning, emergency officials said.

Despite efforts to resuscitate him, David Rogers, 47, was declared dead upon arriving at Columbia Memorial Hospital, said Detective Kristen Hanthorn of the Clatsop County Sheriff's Department. Deputy Robert Burk had assisted emergency responders at the scene.

Rogers was one of four Clatsop

One man from the capsized boat was hoisted onto the other boat as another held onto the side, Hanthorn said. Ultimately, the three men who had accompanied Rogers brought him ashore and were trying to revive him as emergency responders with Gearhart

Fire Department and Medix arrived.

"They got him to the beach and started CPR; we arrived and continued," Gearhart Fire Chief Bill Eddy said. Medix crews arrived and continued the revival efforts as they brought Rogers to Columbia Memorial Hospital.

Gearhart had responded with eight firefighters on the beach using a rescue rig, brush vehicle and command vehicle, and other volunteers were standing by at the station.

During this period, he and his wife Lenore also started Escotec Corporation. This corporation specialized in the manufacture of air movement controls and corkage and capping equipment for the wine and pharmaceutical industries. From 1961 through 1982, Mr. Wilde formed and operated his own charitable foundation. He served as Chairman and CEO. He supported this foundation through his business and his own personal efforts and contributions. His Wesix Foundation's primary mission was medically oriented. It financed such studies as sickle cell anemia at the University of South Carolina Medical School, induced carcinoma at Florida State University, black lung disease at St. Bonaventure University, physiological effect of air unipolar ionization at University of California, and funded a fellowship in graduate study of electrical engineering at Stanford. In 1982, it financed costs of labor and materials to remodel the ICU/CCU at the Seaside General Hospital. In 1981, the Wildes sold their home in Tiburon, California and semi retired in Gearhart, Oregon where they continued to operate their Escotec Corporation. After moving to the North Oregon Coast, Mr. Wilde was involved in numerous community projects and activities. He was the Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of the Lewis and Clark Historical Pageant, Inc. The Seaside Hospital Foundation, Inc.'s Fall 1989 newsletter states that Mr. Wilde was the leading force to establish that foundation and to raise funds to maintain and improve the programs and services at the Seaside General Hospital. He was one of the primary driving forces in the creation of the foundation in August of 1986. Working with staff from the Sisters of Providence Corporation in Seattle and co-founding members Robert Moberg and Al Vernon, Mr. Wilde wrote the Articles of Incorporation and By-laws which would govern the operations of the separately incorporated foundation within the Sisters of Providence Health Care System. Mr. Wilde became further involved with the Seaside General Hospital, first as a volunteer director for the Development and Community Relations and then as a convener of a newly formed community advisory board. Mr. Wilde was a member of the Seaside and Astoria Rotary Clubs. Mr. Wilde also became associated with the Columbia River Maritime Museum as a development volunteer and assisted in the creation and initiation of the planned giving program for the Museum. He has served as a Trustee of the Columbia River Maritime Museum since 1994. In October 1997, Mr. Wilde married Dorothy Wilde of Wilsonville, Oregon. He is survived by his wife Dorothy Wilde, a nephew William Vernon Wilde of Portland, Oregon, a niece Lorraine Wilde Hall, her husband Gordon Hall and a grandniece Rose E. Hall, all of Newberg, Oregon. Remembrances may be made to The Harold and Lenore Wilde Endowment for Professional Development established through The Columbia River Maritime Museum, 1792 Marine Drive, Astoria, OR 97103 and to Lower Columbia Hospice, c/o Columbia Memorial Hospital, 2111 Exchange Street, Astoria, OR 97103.
